DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kramer'435 et al.

Kramer et al disclose a method of detachably mounting a rotating tool to a mounting portion, the mounting portion either having a cylindrical outer circumferential surface (figure 4) or a cylindrical inner circumferential surface (figure 1) by either heating or cooling the mounting portion, or heating or cooling the tool whereby the tool is secured to the mounting portion. See column 1, lines 49-52, which would indicate that the mounting portion or the tool is made from metal (claims 2,3,5, and 7).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3724

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted prior art(APA) in view of Kramer'435 et al.

The APA discloses a rotating tool mounted to a spindle wherein the rotating tool comprises a metal hub and a thin annular metal cutting blade secured to the hub, the cutting blade containing diamond grains. See pages 1 and 2, in applicant's "Description of the Prior Art".

The APA does not disclose mounting the tool to the mounting portion of the spindle by either heating or cooling the mounting portion, or heating or cooling the tool.

Kramer et al, as indicated above, disclose a method of detachably mounting a rotating tool to a mounting portion, the mounting portion either having a cylindrical outer circumferential surface(figure 4) or a cylindrical inner circumferential surface(figure 1) by either heating or cooling the mounting portion, or heating or cooling the tool whereby the tool is secured to the mounting portion.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the method of the APA by detachably mounting the tool to the mounting portion, the mounting portion either having a cylindrical outer circumferential surface(figure 4) or a cylindrical inner circumferential surface(figure 1) by either heating or cooling the mounting portion, or heating or cooling the tool whereby the tool is secured to the mounting portion, as taught by Kramer et al, in order to better secure the tool to the spindle.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 3724

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The prior art discloses using memory alloys for joining to elements together.
